The Cooperative Extension Service is pleased to facilitate the appointment of the Town and Country Art Show Committee and to help sponsor the county, regional and state show. The continuous growth in the number of exhibitors and the quality of offerings is a tribute to the value of the event and the dedication of talented people throughout Illinois.

J. B. Claar, Director
Cooperative Extension Service

The College of Agriculture has been associated with the Town and Country Amateur Art Exhibition since its beginning as a rural art show presented during the College's Farm and Home Week in 1956. The thread of continuity has been provided through the dedication of faculty members and the many "volunteers" whose continuing interest in the show has assured its success and helped it grow to its current status. At the heart of the show, of course, are the artists, and we congratulate them on their accomplishments. We look forward to continued participation in the Town and Country Art Exhibition, cooperating with the College of Fine and Applied Arts, the College of Applied Life Studies, and the Office of Continuing Education and Public Service.

Orville G. Bentley, Dean
College of Agriculture

How people enrich their leisure is an individual matter and various opportunities for self-expression should be available within our communities. Self-expression through art form is more than just personally satisfying to the artist; it contributes as well to the beholder and indeed to our culture.

The College of Applied Life Studies, through its Department of Leisure Studies' Office of Recreation and Park Resources, is thus pleased to share in the promotion and conduct of this important event — the 1978 Town and Country State Amateur Art Show.

Kenneth S. Clarke, Dean
College of Applied Life Studies

One of the great challenges for the College of Fine and Applied Arts is not only to offer the very best educational opportunities to students on this campus, but also to foster quality art in the larger Illinois community — locally, regionally and statewide.

It is with pride that the College assists in taking art beyond the academic setting and the cultural centers and helping to cultivate it among citizens of diverse backgrounds in every part of the state. Even more gratifying is the ever-improving quality of art produced by novice and veteran artists of Illinois.

The College looks forward to another fine series of exhibitions sponsored by the Town and Country Art Show Committee.

Jack H. McKenzie, Dean
College of Fine and Applied Arts

The Office of Continuing Education and Public Service is pleased to continue its long association with the Town and Country Amateur Art Exhibition. We congratulate the many participating artists on their creative achievements and on the important contribution they make to education and cultural development in the state. Many amateurs have become more professional as a result of participation in this program. I look forward to joining those who visit the current state exhibit being held at Lincoln Square.

Dennis A. Dahl, Acting Director
Office of Continuing Education and Public Service

Dedication

The 1978 Town and Country State Amateur Art Exhibition is dedicated to the amateur artists of Illinois — past, present and future — and their many supporters who, since 1956, have made this cultural event one of the best known art programs in the Midwest.

From its modest beginnings with 42 participants representing three counties, the Town and Country Amateur Art program has grown. Today, thousands of artists from three-fourths of Illinois' counties participate.

The Town and Country Art program has been the source of motivation for many amateur artists to produce creative two- and three-dimensional art forms as well as high quality crafts and photography. Through the program, many participating artists have passed from the amateur to the professional ranks of creative endeavor.

To those who have given the amateur artists encouragement, a place to exhibit and an opportunity to be recognized, the artists express their appreciation. Without the support of many unsung sponsors, thousands of Illinois amateur artists would not have had the opportunity to bring their works before the public and to gain recognition and encouragement.

In the final analysis, however, today's program would never have existed without the deep interest, dedication and strong spirit of working together that is characteristic of participants in the Town and Country Amateur Art program. Therefore, we dedicate this year's state exhibition to them — the amateur artists of Illinois.

Congratulations, one and all, for allowing us the privilege of sharing the fruits of your endeavors.

History Of Town And Country Amateur Art Exhibition

For 23 years the University of Illinois has recognized the work of amateur artists through a statewide program known today as the Town and Country State Amateur Art Exhibition.

The program began in 1956 as a rural arts show held in conjunction with the 55th Farm and Home Week. In the early years of the show, exhibitors were limited to residents of rural Illinois — the open country and towns of less than 10,000 population. The program has since been broadened to include all interested Illinois amateur artists.

Amateurs are classified as those who engage in art as a pastime without pursuing it as a professional career. Any person who receives half or more of his income from the sale of his art work or services, or who holds a degree in art from a professional school, is ineligible.

In its first 23 years, the Town and Country Amateur Art Exhibition has involved almost 92,219 amateur artists, with more than 158,000 entries at the county level, and 4,000 prize-winning works selected for the state show.

Credit for the idea of a rural arts show in Illinois goes to Hadley Read, head of the U. of I. Office of Agricultural Communications. Returning from the Minnesota Farm and Home Week in 1955, he brought a catalog of their Rural Artists exhibit. Read suggested to E. H. (Duke) Regnier, professor of rural recreation, that Illinois initiate a similar show for the Farm and Home Week.

Regnier and others agreed it was a good idea and thought the rural people of Illinois would be interested. At that time, some home advisers conducted programs to further the appreciation of arts and crafts. Also, the Cooperative Extension Service Program of Leisurecraft and Counseling Camp and the county craft schools could provide exhibitors.

The Division of University Extension was offering art courses conducted by Art Professor Walter M. Johnson. He accepted the idea enthusiastically as a way to unite the scattered efforts of educational, recreational, and personal pursuits in arts and crafts.

The proposal received the active support and cooperation of the College of Fine and Applied Arts. Dean A. S. Weller met with members of the art staff — Glenn Bradshaw, Nicholas Britsky, George Foster, Don Frith, and Johnson — and the proceedings were presented to Dean Louis B. Howard of the College of Agriculture.

Howard approved the idea and appointed a committee consisting of L. E. Anderson, D. A. Brown, Jessie Heathman, Dorothy O. Twardock and Regnier to plan a rural arts show for the 55th Farm and Home Week. Bradshaw and Foster were consultants.

The response for the exhibit was greater than anticipated. The 100 entries crowded the Agriculture Library in Mumford Hall on the U. of I. campus. The show included the works of 42 artists from 19 Illinois communities. The jury, consisting of Johnson, Bradshaw, Foster and Frith, selected 10 pieces to receive special citations. Highlighting the first exhibit were a number of gallery features consisting of demonstrations in ceramics by Frith, oil painting by Foster, watercolors by Bradshaw, and miniatures by Nella Van Wyk, a guest artist from Johannesburg, South Africa.

The response and enthusiasm of Farm and Home Week participants, faculty, and staff were great enough to insure its becoming a regular part of Farm and Home Week.

Although the last Farm and Home Week was held in 1962, the Art Exhibition continues as an independent unit of the U. of I.

From the Agriculture Library the state show moved to lower gym of the Women's Building (now the English Building), the Bevier Hall basement, then to the Architecture Gallery, and in 1963, the Town and Country State Amateur Art Exhibition opened in Lincoln Square, Urbana. Since then the Lincoln Square Management Association has cooperated in staging the show here, giving thousands the opportunity to view the work of amateur artists from throughout the state.

STATE JURIST

Kenneth Lansing
Professor of Art and Design
University of Illinois

This state exhibition is the culmination of numerous county and district shows held earlier this year. These exhibits drew entries from 9,669 artists in 71 counties. From these local shows, coordinated by county Cooperative Extension staff members, 1,683 were selected for the 10 regional shows. A total of 712 exhibited in the regional exhibitions. From this group, 217 blue ribbon entries were selected for exhibition in the state show.

The College of Agriculture, Cooperative Extension Service, College of Fine and Applied Arts, College of Applied Life Studies and the Office of Continuing Education and Public Service sponsor the exhibit.

We appreciate the enthusiastic cooperation of the Lincoln Square management in staging the exhibition in the High Court Mall and in publicizing it.

If you wish to buy items in the exhibition, contact the artists. Their addresses are in the catalog.

We hope you enjoy this year's show.
